SMALL CHANGES, BIG CONSEQUENCES - 6 things you can do to help the environment

1. Don't leave your computer or other electrical appliances on standby. If you switch off your TV completely when you've stopped watching, it won't use any electricity. People think that a gadget on standby uses only the electricity for that 'little red light'. Not true!

2. When you charge your mobile, disconnect the charger from the phone when the battery is fully charged. Otherwise you will waste energy.

3. If you keep your shopping bags and reuse them when you go to the supermarket, you'll save money. Don't forget that plastic waste is a danger for the environment. Unless people stop throwing plastic away, the environment will suffer even more.

4. Don't let the water run while you're brushing your teeth. If you turn it off and use a cup of water to rinse your mouth, you'll save a lot of water.

5. Make sure none of the taps in your house drip. If a tap drips, it wastes three or more litters of water a day.

6. Think before you throw things away, and tell your family to do the same. They may not want to use an old mobile, computer or MP3 player any more. That doesn't mean that those things should end up in the litter bin. If they go to a charity, other people might find them very useful.

Task 1. Decide whether the statements are True (T) or False (F). (1 m)

25. According to the passage, there are 6 things to do to help the environment.
